To whom it may concern:

We work for the City of Fredericksburg and recently brought the Urban Slide to town in partnership with Kodiak Events. The event was held on Saturday, September 1st from 9am – 6pm, and it was a bigger success than we could have possibly imagined. Shawn Smith, Derrest Williams, and the rest of their team promised and delivered on a fantastic experience for our community and visitors to our city.

From their initial correspondence and site visit to breakdown of the slide, the Kodiak team provided helpful insights and suggestions, timely responses, met all deadlines, and were amenable to our requests. Their level of professionalism surpassed our expectations, and should we decide on making SlideFXBG an annual event, there is no doubt whatsoever that we will be employing their services again.

As this was a first-time slide event and there were many unknown factors – particularly the capacity of the chosen venue to handle large crowds – we limited the number of sliders to approximately 1,800 (not including volunteers). The breakdown was as follows:

- 1,200 tickets sold to the general public
 - These were priced at $25 apiece and sold in 2-hour “waves” where participants were able to slide as many times as they wanted in a given 2-hour time slot
- 100 tickets sold to the University of Mary Washington at $25 apiece for their students
 - The event sold out before students returned from summer vacation, so these tickets were allocated for this reason
 - 50 were added to the 3rd time slot and the other 50 to the 4th
- 425 all-day tickets made available to sponsors
- Approximately 75 all-day tickets made available to the immediate households of the residents directly impacted by the event (couldn’t access their homes with their vehicles due to the slide)

We raised $40,000 in sponsorships (8 companies @ $5,000 each) and sold $32,500 in tickets, making our gross revenue $72,500. After paying to bring the slide here, the intention is to use a portion of the net revenue towards next year’s event.

It is with great confidence that we highly recommend using the services of Kodiak Events in bringing the Urban Slide to your locality.
